Hey who goes out randomly midweek to ... (hope it's YOU!)

- meet interesting people and make new leisure, social or business connections
- taste some great food and drink
- get excited about what leap of faith (ie bucket list item) they want to tick off in 2012 and get the support crew and motivation to do just that...
- make a HUGE DIFFERENCE in a teen's life?

My charity of choice this year to fundraise for and be a volunteer on the day is JumpStart www.jumpstart.org.nz who are supporting teens from CanTeen (Teenagers living with cancer) and Project K (Maximising youth potential) to do a life-transforming parachute jump in May, 2012.

What to bring:

- BYO food and drink for pot luck dinner. Why don't you get a little playful and make something you've never cooked before or bring something you would love to eat or drink, but seldom do! Eat and drink out of your "square"!
- Why not invite someone to come with you who you haven't seen for awhile, someone you would like to get to know or someone who you would simply love to enjoy some social mid-week cheer with? Come on, be random! Adds to the mix!
- Some cash or visa card for a donation to give some teens an aaaaagghhh → yeehaa experience!

Can't make it to the evening? Donations gratefully accepted online at www.fundraiseonline.co.nz/JanelleFletcherJumpStart
